

CREATIVE TEACHER. IDEA ARCHITECT. MOTIVATIONAL SPEAKER.

Wendy has 20 plus years teaching at the college level combined with workforce training and leadership coaching. She is inspirational, motivational and a creative visionary that has a funny and direct style of helping others see potential in themselves and a pragmatic way to manifest a vision. Wendy's passion is helping others discover their greatest potential to create and manifest personal, professional, and business goals. Her interests and experiences encompass a variety of industries and are full of surprises. Her toolbox for guiding clients includes Gallup Certified Strengths Coach®, Educator, Journalism, Equestrian Coach, Competitor, Trainer, Writer, Filmmaker, Astrologer and more.

She has a unique way of connecting with audiences since she has been part of the educational evolution that is impacting the workforce now. Millennials, Generation Xers and Boomers in one company, Oh my! The challenges and the opportunities are endless, but how do you get them all to communicate and understand each other? Wendy's wholehearted interactive approach engages audiences to think, react, and discover new approaches to achieving results.

As a Gallup Certified Coach and experienced teacher, her model has always been to focus on what can make someone better by focusing on what they already do well. Read her client testimonials or watch the video and hear it from them.

Wendy's presentations encourage employees and business leaders to use their strengths to stay competitive in a fast changing economic landscape. When people and businesses are forced to change it's often to late. Her focus on people will instigate change that builds on existing talents and develops them further. No one wants to be left behind especially when they had what they needed to succeed.

In addition, she coaches executives and leaders on how to use their strengths to cultivate their teams and recognize untapped potential.